BAND STORY

"I've been in the industry for 4-years as a musician and seven as a music web writer. We play a variety of pop/rock/Portuguese pop. Born in Ponta Delgada, Sao Miguel, Azores, Portugal, I have spent most of my time in Toronto, Canada. I have written between, 35-40 songs and only the last couple of years I have put 7-8 songs into recordings. It was my attention to have a debut CD in place by the end of this year, but due to unfortunate personal issues, the completion of this project it's most likely to transpire in 2010. "

Hey Brown! Rihahahanna!

Desperate times call for desperate measures, just ask Chris Brown. It seemed only weeks ago, when this "cowardly" a-hole dude was dishing out some very serious punishment into his girl Rihanna. It wasn't long after, that everyone who ordinarily would be buying his records, were "slam dunking" his cd's into the trash can. Flash forward, in hopes of trying to win back some support, Brown has released his newest song "I can transform ya". In this piece, Brown fully demonstrates how the word "brag" is closely connected to his unpredictable personality. No way! Rihanna has a single out too! It's called "forever, never together again." Kidding! It's actually called, "Russian Roulette". Wait a minute! I know a dude who can play this game real well! You got it, his name is Chris Brown! Oh yes! I'm actually confident Mr. Brown's newest song is going to be hitting the bottom of the charts! Hitting I say! Now there's a word and an activity well acquainted with the guy..

A shot of moonshine....

Some say the Portuguese culture is all about eating, drinking and of course passing out. Yeah! Passing out I say! After all you could only drink so much before your legs give out and then your eyes shut and you fall asleep and snore like a *...Without question, we can party with the best in the world, but not without a shot of moonshine. I know we kick * when it comes to producing some of this planet's best wine, but what most people don't know, is that we can also formulate some very high octane moonshine, which for the most part can knock you out with just one shot..This is a secret Portuguese keep from their children until they are actually old enough to grow their beard and experience that "fiery" first shot of moonshine..
